Another Proof of How Sentiment Rules and Governs Even the Most Dignified.

By ALVAH JORDAM GARTH.

Jarnigan sat at his desk in the bank supremely satisfied with himself, with the institution of which he was an efficient and valued official, and with the results of a good day's work.

There was no sertiment about Jarmigan, at least so he told himself. System was his hobby. Face, manner and methods were all made subservient to a dignified unvarying rule. To Jarnigan men fitted into the ban's measure, or didn't. In one case they were taken into fostering financial arms protectingly. Per contra, the useless, the delinquent and the utter-By bad were cast as rubbish to the Jarnigan nigan. had been congratulated for discoverang a defect in a bond issue the institution had come very near handling. He felt pretty good, and rubbed his hands together with a pleased sense of being a strict follower of banking ethics, with no sentiment standing between his good judgment and the best interests of the bank.

A bank book was passed across the counter slab and directly under his

"You Are Sure of That?"

Tyes. Usually chary of glances or greetings that took time, and therefore cost money, as was his wont, placed both her hands within his own. Jarnigan was about to give the case the attention it might require, when he noticed that a shapely gloved hand had pushed the book over to him.

to stare steadily. He was looking Into the fairest face he had ever seen. It was that of a young girl, very neatbut plainly dressed. A wistful mournfulness in her eves seemed to appeal for sympathy and kindly attention.

"What is it, miss?" spoke Jarnigan, a trifle less peremptory than was his existom. "Ah, I see," he added as he opened the book and found enclosed a check for five hundred dollars, signed "Robert Dalziel."

"I see. And this is his bank book. Wery good," continued Jarnigan. "He wishes to draw out his entire balance and the check is made out to

"I do not wish the cash," explained the account carried in ney namemow.

"Could not your brother come with you-for purposes of identification?" "My brother," replied the girl in a voice very near to tears, "is-in prison.'

Jarnigan did not reply. He felt a strange wave of pity sweep over him. Then, methodically, as usual, he made out a new book, and presented it with the necessary documents to the girl.

"H'm," he soliloquized, as she thanked him in a low tone, and he watched her graceful form clear to the door-

Somehow the incident lingered in the mind of the bank man. Somehow, too, he hoped the girl would come again. Several days passed by, and one morning an elderly lady presented a check for twenty dollars, signed by "Ida Dalziel." The receiving teller sent her to Mr. Jarnigan.

"That is all right," observed Jarnigan, scanning the signature, "but you will have to be identified." "I fear I do not know anybody down town," said the lady. "I live with Miss Dalziel." "I am sorry," said Jarnigan, "but we have a strict rule as to strangers. By the way," and he felt a conscious flush, "tell Miss Dalziel I will send the cash by messenger, who will explain to her how she may 'O. K.' her checks, so there will be no further trouble when they come in." All that afternoon Jarnigan was in a strange mood. He went to the bank files and got the card address of the fair depositor. He caught himself thinking of her in the very midst of Important business. Then he arrived at a decision. He would take the money to Miss Dalziel himself. Why

Everything about the little flat and its two occupants bespoke refinement as Jarnigan entered the Dalziel apartments. He was asked to sit down. Before he knew it, his mission of business ended in an hour's stay.

Miss Dalziel told a pitiful story Her brother, Ernest, had been for years the trusted employe of a large diamond house. One day he was arrested. Forty thousand dollars worth of gems were found missing. Dalziel was accused. A few small diamonds were found in his desk, placed there by some one, he declared. The stolen gems were not found, and he was sentenced to the penitentiary for ten

"Innocent!" insisted Ida, in tears. "And we know the guilty one."
"You are sure of that?" inquired

Jarnigan, eager and interested. "Yes, it was James Hope, the chief clerk. He placed the guilt on my brother. Ernest says he knows that Hope has hidden the gems away until he can safely dispose of them. Hope is a bad man. My brother found a ficient funds" man had ever "put it letter to him, in which a convict in over" on Jarnigan. He had the record the Ohio penitentiary charged him of the bank for sizing up a borrower with getting him into trouble, and just right, and shutting him off dead then leaving him to bear the brunt short at the first hint of shrinking of the crime. He wrote that he lived for but one thing-to escape, and then he swore to kill Hope."

"Have you that letter?" asked Jar-

"Yes," replied Ida. "Give it to me. I want to think over the case.' Somehow the progress of "the case" furnished an excuse to the bank man to call twice during the next week. The one following he appeared with suppressed excitement and satisfaction in his manner.

"Miss Dalziel," he said, as they were seated alone, "I have good news for you. The missing diamonds and James Hope, the man who stole them, are in the hands of the police.'

"And my brother?" cried Ida, clasping her hands in suspense.

"Will be a free man within a few days."

There the overcome young lady fainted away, and, holding her in his arms and gazing on her lovely face, Jarnigan took a final step-he kissed

"That letter," he told her later, gave me a clue. I acted upon the theory that Hope was in mortal terror of the man he had sent to prison. I bribed a newspaper friend near the Ohio penitentiary to print a story of the convict's escape. I saw that Hope got it. Our bank detective shadowed him. He went to a lonely house and secured the stolen gems. Thence he proceeded to a railway ticket office, and then we nabbed him, finding the gems upon him. The chain of evidence was complete."

"Oh, how shall we thank you?" cried Ida, her eyes suffused with mingled tears of joy and gratitude. Jarnigan, the man with no sentiment, looked her in the eyes.

FIRST OF WORLD'S MOSQUES

Interesting Legends That Are Connected With Famous St. Sophia in Constantinople.

"Famed throughout the world for its beautiful architecture, the mosque of St. Sophia has a legend that acquires sudden interest now," writes a European correspondent of the Daily News. "Originally the mosque was a Christian church. The priest was in the act of celebrating mass on that memorable 29th of May, 1453, when Sultan Mohammed rode his horse into the sacred edifice, followed by his victorious Turks, and began slaughtering the Christians. The priest fled from the altar, passing through a small door behind it, but when the pursuing Turks reached the the young lady. "I would like to have spot, intending to follow the priest, they found but a blank wall—the door had disappeared, and all traces of the fugitive were gone. But the story goes that when once again the mosque of St. Sophia becomes a Christian place of worship, the wall will open of its own accord and reveal the secret door out of which the aged priest will step forth to conclude the celebration of the mass at the altar.

"Another legend, recounted even by the Turks themselves, tells of two monumental candles built into the apse of the mosque. On every high Christian festival these candles are supernaturally set alight. When these candles are quite burnt down into their sockets the Turkish domination will be over, and the mosque of holy wisdom will be a Christian church once more. "The Balkan allies are now wondering how far the candles have been consumed, and hoping that the present year may witness the fulfillment of this ancient prophecy."

Groping for a Genius.

Anybody, from the millionaire down to a cook, can write a good play. This is a fact, and must be true, because all of them, laying aside for the moment their overmastering mode, will tell you so.

This is what the manager of a great theatrical business in New York said the other day.

"It is the hardest thing imaginable to find a good play. Our concern has read a thousand plays a year for the last seven years, a total of seven thousand and out of that number we have not found a single play worth using. Anybody can write a play but mighty few can write it right."-The Popular

By HARDLD CARTER.

Dr. Sergius O'Flanahan, stationed at his post in the great receiving room at Ellis island, examining immigrants for trachoma, let his hands fall upon his apron and gasped. He found himself staring into a sweet face upturned twinkled with fun and then suddenly to his and into two blue eyes that clouded with sorrow.

"Nora Mulcahy!" he muttered. "Glory be! I guess there's nothing the matter with your eyes, Nora. How did you get here?"

Whist! You're holding up the line, Sergius," said Nora. "I'll see you afterward at the place they're sending me to, unless they won't let me go

'Sure, Nora, this is a bad business,' said the young doctor, sitting down beside her. "I hear you're to be married."

"That I am," answered Nora, looking sidewise at him.

"It's a bad business." said O'Flanahan again. "Who is it, Nora darlin'?" "You mustn't call me that, Sergius, nor squeeze my hand," said Nora primly. "I wouldn't have thought it of you, Doctor O'Flanahan." "I'm not squeezing it, Nora: I'm just holding it," said Sergius, and, as she made no protest, he continued holding it. "Who is the lucky man?" he continued. "Is it Piggy Mac-Shane!"

"Now do you think that I'd be after marrying MacShane?" cried Nora indignantly. "No, indeed it isn't."

"Then it's Terry MacBride; bad luck to him," cried Sergius. "I knew he'd get you, Nora, if you didn't take care. Is it MacBride?", "No, it isn't MacBride," said Nora faintly. "And please—please don't ask me. You'd be so jealous." "Then I know who it is for sure," said the young doctor. "It's Ellis O'Flaherty. Ellis, who always boasted that he'd get you and went to Chicago four years ago and made his pile fattening pigs."

"And what if he does fatten pigs, Sergius O'Flanahan?" exclaimed Nora indignantly. "He's worth his ten thousand dollars today, is Ellis, if he's worth a penny. Mind you," she added, "I'm not saying that it is Ellis, though."

"I know it's Ellis," answered Sergius O'Flanahan gloomily. "I knew he'd get you. He always beat me out of everything. Do you remember when he won the pig at the fair by staying on the mule when I got pitched into the mud? He was always great on pigs, Ellis was. Ah Nora, if only you hadn't turned me down when I asked you, before I left the Old Sod to walk a lonely wander er over the earth. Twice I asked you and each time you said no."

"Twice!" exclaimed Nora. "Why Ellis asked me seven times before he sailed and wrote me five times after ward. Why didn't you try me again, Sergius?" she continued softly.

The young doctor edged closer to ward her. "You'd--you'd have taken me, Nora?" he whispered.

Then he saw that the tears stood her eyes again. He clasped her in his arms, and she did not resist but lay there.

softly. "We were a couple of young fools to quarrel over nothing at all, asthore. And all the years I've been in America I've been seeing your sweet face before me night and day, darlin'. And when I wrote you from Newark, when I had my last job there, I was sure you'd come out to me, but you didn't even answer me.

Wouldn't you rather take a fine, rising young doctor with a government job than old Ellis O'Flaherty, with his ten thousand dollars and his pigsticking?"

Nora was smiling up at him as she lay in his arms.

"Yes, Sergius, darling, I'd like to." she whispered. "But now-now that they've sent a telegram to the man I've come out to marry I'm afraid it's too late. He may be here any moment. And how would I look, walking off with the doctor? If only I'd known you were here. How long have you been at Ellis island, Sergius?"

"A month last Saturday," the doctor answered. "Why?"
"O, nothing," sighed Nora.

"Nora, asthore," whispered Sergius, "it isn't too late. I think I can square the folks here. They can't hold you so long as you've got some means of support. And I can support you, Nora, yes, even if I lose my place in consequence. And I guess a woman's always privileged to change her mind.

"And what about Ellis, Sergius?" inquired Nora demurely.

"It is Ellis, then?" "I'm not saying it's Ellis," Nora Sergius O'Flanahan snapped his fingers. "Nora," he said, "you always were a tease. If I'd had a grain of sense in the old days I'd have captured you and carried you to the priest and made you marry me before you knew what I was doing to you. But it isn't too late yet. And as for Ellis, a man who lets a chance like you slip through his fingers isn't worth the having. Now I've got you and I'm going to keep you. Come along and see the commissioner.'

room, along the corridor, and up the stairs to the room in which the offices of the commissioner are situated. He paused at the door. "I'd like to see you a minute, sir,"

He led her out of the detention

"Come in, O'Flanahan," the commissioner answered. "Let the lady come in. By the way, here's a telegram just come for you. I held it here, knowing you'd be up for the board meeting. You'd better open it."

The doctor tore open the envelope and pulled out the missive inside. He

"I beg your pardon, doctor," he said, turning round. "What was it that you wanted to see me about?" (Copyright, 1912, by W. G. Chapman.)

JUDGE WILLING TO PLEASE

Protesting Prisoner Escaped With Light Sentence After He Had Put Up an Argument.

Judges were very considerate in the old days. Lord Brampton, in his 'Reminiscences," relates a story illustrating this:

Baron Martin, a famous English jurist of the old school, whose native leniency and sense of fun often placed him at the mercy of the very men he was trying, was once about to sentence an old offender charged with a petty theft.

"Look," said the baron, with an assumption of severity; "I hardly know what to do, but you can take six months."

"I can't take that, my lord; it's too much," said the prisoner, respectfully but firmly. "I can't take it. Your lordship sees I didn't steal very much, after all." The baron indulged in one of his low, enuckling laughs before replying:

"Well, that's very true; ye didn't steal much," he said. "Well, then, ye can take four months. Will that -four months?" "Nay, my lord, but I can't take that, either," was the reply. "Then tak' three." "That's nearer the mark, my lord," the prisoner said, approvingly. "But I'd rather you made it two, if you will be so kind.'

"Verra well, then, tak' two," said the judge, with the air of one who is pleased to have done the right thing at last. "And mind, don't come again. If you do I'll give yer-well, it all depends!

Forty and a Bittock. The novelist, Barrie, has given a new phrase, a Scottish phrase which may be adopted into the English language. It is to take the place of the awkwardly polite terms of "a woman of uncertain age," or "on the wrong side of forty," or "of years of discretion." His phrase is "forty and a bittock." A "bittock" is Scotch for a bit more or a short distance. It may mean five years or twenty years. In the case of Madame Yale, Lillian Russell or that woman of imperishable youth, Sarah Bernhardt, it might mean even more years beyond forty.

"No," said Bella, "I'll not go with you on a lake boat this year. I have too vivid a recollection of my last lake trip. Mrs. Clark invited me to go to Escanaba with her and Fay on a freight boat. I was delighted. Fay had been on the trip before and she reported that she had the time of 'The trip to Escanaba was a dream. The captain and sailors could not do enough for us. It was moonlight and the lake looked beautiful. I felt as if I was on a private yacht. It was perfect-till we started back. At Escanaba they loaded the boat when I saw that the sky looked like lead, with ugly yellow streaks across it. I said to Mrs. Clark, 'I think we shall have a storm.' "You know how optimistic she is!

With that sky above us, she gayly remarked, 'Oh, do you think so?' "It was not long before the storm broke. The wind came suddenly and the rain came down like an overturned sea. We hurried into the protection of the cabin and watched the storm. "It was awful the way the boat creaked. I will say nothing about

I cried 'I'll go straight to the bottom.' "Fay answered, despairingly, 'We all will. There'll be no other place to go! "Like a flash all the mean things

I had ever done rushed through my mind. I never knew before that crisis on the lake that there were so many of them. "Suddenly Fay jumped up. 'I am going to put on a life preserver,' she exclaimed. "There was none in sight. We began to hunt frantically. The boat pitched us in every direction. We looked on the ceiling, on the walls and even tore the cushions from the chairs. There was no sign of life preservers. Where could those men have put them? At last Mrs. Clark found them in a closet, covered with insect powder. We pulled them out and each grabbed one. "Fay was wriggling into hers—it looked like a doughnut. I had on a cork jacket with the back to the front.

'Tie it!' I kept on screaming to them. "Mrs. Clark had one on and was trying to get into another. We were all sneezing because of the insect powder.

"Mrs. Clark ran to the door for fresh air. 'Oh, girls,' she called. There is the steward bringing us tea. And the lifeboat is still in its place! "Fay and I made a dive for the door. Yes, there was the lifeboat! I could hardly believe it. "By this time the steward came up. 'Is the boat going to sink?' cried Mrs. Clark "'Sink? No, everything is all right," he said. "'Why, that sailor was lowering the lifeboat,' shrieked Fay. The captain came in at that minute. 'He was sent to fasten it more securely,' said the captain. 'Then why couldn't he say cried Mrs. Clark.

"I never could tell you how those men laughed. We began to pull at those life preservers. When mine came off I looked as if I had been rolled in insect powder. It was a comfort to see the other two look as if they had just escaped from an insane asylum.

I suddenly began dropping hints to him what a wonderfully fine cook I was and how I hated pounding a typewriter all day when my soul just longed for a gas range and a sack of flour and a recipe book. I said the dream of my life was to have time to cook delicious things that would melt in your mouth and that sometimes when I could persuade mother to go and visit her sister I

"I think you probably killed the man with your cooking," replied stenographer from across the Chicago Daily News.

GREAT AUK'S EGG?

Maybe, but Nevertheless, It Arrived at the Breakfast Table in a Scramble.

By MARGARET MANNING.

Professor Ferdinand Brinckhofen wandered into the kitchen of his summer bungalow, on the Maine shore. His wife was washing the dinner dishes.

"Ellen, my dear," he said, "Doctor Cavendish, of the Natural History museum, will be here this afternoon. Can you get up a meal for him? He has to stark back tomorrow morn-

"I suprose so, Ferdinand," answered his wife, a little tartly. "You know, of course, that we haven't much in the house to offer a guest. However, I'll do my best, and if he will be satisfied with it he's welcome. Why is he coming all this distance just to spend the night with us?"

Professor Brinckhofen put his arm round his wife's waist and kissed

"I know you're busy, Ellen," he said. "Next summer we'll get a maid." And he wandered out, while his wife went on washing. She dried the last plate and set it aside.

"I wonder just why Doctor Cavendish is coming here for one night," she said to herself.

Professor Brinckhofen engaged a rowboat and pulled round to the railroad terminal, where he arrived just in time to greet Doctor Cavendish as his visitor stepped out of his car.

"Well, what did you think of my letter?" he asked, after the customary greetings had been interchanged.

Doctor Cavendish took his friend by the arm. "My dear old enthusiast," he answered, "to be frank with you,

"Good Heaven, Brinckhofen, It Is! It Is!"

I am sceptical—wholly sceptical. It sounds too good to be true. If you had told me that you had discovered a buried Indian village or a dozen asteroids I would have accepted your word without question. But a great auk's egg-no my friend. You have probably mistaken the egg of a crested grebe or tufted puffin for that of the auk."

"But the great auk did range as far south as Maine in the last century! cried the professor.

"And the last specimen was shot in 1844."

"No. Cavendish, in 1912. I tell you it was an auk. I shot the brooding bird, but it fell into the water and drifted out to sea before I could get a boat. But the egg-it was an auk's egg, and it was warm. I took it home and I'm incubating it."

What does Mrs. Brinckhofen think

"She doesn't know anything about it, of course. I don't believe in telling my wife a professional secret. And the joke of it is"-he nudged Cavendish in the ribs-"it's incubating with a clutch of eggs that she set out last week under one of our hens. It couldn't be safer anywhere.

'Show me!" said Cavendish scep tically, and they entered the rowboat and, a few minutes later, rounded the point of land behind which the Brinckhofens had their bungalow.

"There was where I shot her," said the professor, pointing to the high, towering cliff. "I didn't mean to, either, but I was so excited that I couldn't bear to think of her getting away. Now, before we do anything else we'll go straight to the clutch."

They climbed the hill and entered the little garden of the bungalow. In one corner was the hen house, and, in the center, seated upon a clutch of eggs surrounded with straw, was a gray hen, which looked at them with malignant eyes and half opened her beak as though to protect her trea-

"Shoo!" said Profesor Brinckhofen. and the hen slowly rose and retired a few paces, where it crouched with flapping wings and an trate expression. Professor Brinckhofen plunged his hand into the clutch and drew out the precious egg. It was a little larger than that of a goose.

Good heavens, Brinckhofen, it is! It is!" yelled Boctor Cavendish, and, carefully replacing it, he seized his friend round the waist, and the two graybeards executed a dance. Mrs. Brinckhofen watched them out of the kitchen window. "I suppose that is Doctor Cavendish," she said pityingly. "I wonder why they are dancing in the hen-

She sat down and meditated upon the subject until the men came in. Then she welcomed Doctor Cavendish with smiles

"Come, Cavendish, I want to show you my laboratory," said Brinckhofen, dragging his friend away as soon as he decently could. They went into the professor's little bare room and began discussing the great discovery.

"Of course it goes to the museum, Brinekhofen," said Cavendish. "It will be worth a thousand dollars to you.'

"A thousand dollars!" exclaimed the professor. "You are joking, Cavendish. Why, the egg alone would bring that at auction."

"Yes, yes, I'm speaking about the egg," said Doctor Cavendish ireitably. What are you speaking socut?"

"Why, the auk, of course. Don't you know that I put it there so that it would hatch? Why, we'll have a real live bird, Cavendish. I shall sell it to the Zoological society, and I'll patch up the egg after it has hatched out, and I'll let you have that for a thousand. And the bird will lay more eggs, and I'll get a thousand apiece for those too, and—"

"I say," interposed Cavendish, "re-member it isn't hatched yet. If I were you I would tell Mrs. Brinckhofen about it."

"Tell Mrs. Brinckhofen! Why, she'd tell the neighbors and they'd steal it or do something to it! Never trust a woman. No, it is safest just where it

They argued with some lack of equanimity until dinner time, when Mrs. Brinckhofen ejected them into the dining room.
"Hum! I'm hungry as a bear," said

Doctor Cavendish, pulling his napkin across knees. "What have we here? Scrambled eggs? Fine!"

"I don't know whether you like scrambled goose eggs," said Mrs. Brinckhofen. "They say they're very nice. I found one under our biddy-it must have been laid by one of Mr. Giles's geese, for it wasn't there last time I looked. So I thought that as we hadn't many eggs I'd try what it tasted like."

"Woman!" gasped the professor, springing to his feet, "do you mean to say you—you scrambled that egg?" Yes, dear," said Mrs. Brinckhofen

HOT BREAKFAST MEANS MUCH

Success or Failure of the Day Depends to a Large Extent on First Meal.

When a singularly successful business man was asked the secret of getting on in the world, he modestly said his wife deserved most of the credit, as she always had a good breakfast ready for him every day in the year, served punctually and piping hot. He further said that poor food, especially in the morning, was responsible for many business failures, for the man who sets out on a cold morning with cold, indifferent food in his stomach is ill-prepared for the business battle. It takes time and planning, but it pays to serve good breakfasts. It means getting up early enough to insure against rushing about and fretting when things go wrong, but the wise woman counts it no sacrifice to send her husband off cheery and well fed. There are plenty of ways in which a woman without help may manage will find plenty to oversee and correct day after day. The women who rise early to get breakfast for their husbands unite in saying there are possibilities in the early morning hours realized later in the day. When other women are sleepily getting up, the thrifty housekeepers have their morning work done and are ready to get the children off to school. There would be fewer failures in school work if all children were sent to the school room well fed in the morning. If they were aroused in time to dress leisurely and eat a hearty breakfast there would be fewer cases of nervous prostration among teachers. A cup of hot cocoa, a poached egg, good toast and well-cooked cerceal served to the entire family in the morning and eaten in a leisurely manner would rob more rain every year. Observations at the Observatory of Paris show that from 1804 to 1824 the average yearly rainfall was 502 millimeters (an inch is about 35 millime ters). In the next twenty years the average was 507; then from 1845 to 1872 there was an increase to $25; in the next twenty years it was 553, and in the last nineteen years the average has grown to 584 millimeters—about 231/2 inches.

The commonest theory to account for this is that the smoke and dust rising from a large city favor the condensation of moisture. But this theory runs counter to the experience of London, the smokiest city of Europe, where no such increased rainfall is recorded.

And in some of the mountainous regions of France the increase has been as much as 73 per cent., as compared with thirty years ago.

Whole Family Benefited By Wonderful Remedy

There are many little things to annoy us, under present conditions of life. The hurry, hard work, noise and strain all tell on us and tend to provoke nervousness and irritability.. We are frequently so worn out we can neither eat, sleep nor work with any comfort. We are out of line with ourselves and others as well.

A good thing to do under such circumstances is to take something to relieve the strain on the nerves. Mrs. J. B. Hartsfield, 33 Corput St., Atlanta Ga., writes:

"I have on several occasions been vastly relieved by the use of your medicines, especially the Anti-Pain Pills, which I keep constantly on hand for the use of myself, husband and two sons. Nothing in the world equals them as a headache remedy. Often I am enabled by the use of one or two of the Pills to continue my housework when otherwise I would be in bed. My husband joins me in my praise of the Anti-Pain Pills and Nervine."

Every energy we possess will be used to make your dealings with us both pleasant and profitable. It is our aim to elevate the standard of modern retailing by using strictly honorable methods in conducting our business and by selling nothing but Merchandiss of QUAL-ITY.

We sell Hart Schaffner & Marx fine Suits and Overcoats, the best clothes Men; Palmer Coat Suits and Cloaks for Ladies and Misses.

King Quality Shoes for Men, Queen Quality Shoes for Women.

All of our different lines are in harmony with these famous makes.

Take no notice of the unlucky thirteen, but take us into your confidence and we'll trade together to our mutual good and we'll make 1913 a happy and a profitable year.

Someone has said that the way we start the New Year will in a measure be the way we will spend it. Believing that there is probably some truth in this statement, we want to urge on you a "right start." Now to make matters short, we want your business in 1913 and we believe that it will be to your interest to come our way. By doing this we are sure, beyond any doubt, that you will be starting right.

Beginning to-day, we are putting many lines in our winter stock at a big reduction. Call and see them, and remember that IT PAYS TO TRADE WITH A HOUSE THAT SAVES YOU MONEY.

St. Petersburg.-Co-operative or ganizations of consumers are numerous in Russia, and in the number of people interested are second only to those in Germany. They made rapid that state in one year. The labor deprogress in 1911, chiefly because the prices of necessities are increasing much more rapidly than earnings. Last year there were five thousand this end and the co-operation it reconsuming co-operative organizations, the sum of their yearly returns amounting to 100,000,000 rubles ($51,-

Boston.-The decision of the board of arbitrators on the request of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers on the eastern railroads was rather a disappointment to many of the men. the concessions granted not being as favorable as was expected. While the decision was pending the managements of the several local railroads deferred all conferences with committees of other organizations. It is expected that they will now be taken up.

New York.—Announcement was made here of the formation of unions in nine trades which have heretofore had no such organizations. The new unions include the shoe repairers, the clip sorters and rag pickers, the hat band makers and the sailors' washable suitmakers. Preparations for another strike of waistmakers here are under way. A decision by the union, which has 30,000 members, mostly women, is expected soon. The strike two years ago was unsuccessful.

London, England .- To devise means of forcing parliament to devote all of its next session to measures to raise the standard of life for working people, a national conference of members of the Independent Labor party and the Fabian society met recently. A minimum wage, shorter working hours, complete insurance against sickness, prevention of unemployment and healthful homes for the laboring classes are among the demands.

London, England.—Established in 2812, the London West End Upholsterers' Trade society claims to be the oldest trade union in existence. It was instituted at the Upholsterers' Arms, Poland street west, on October cently held its centenary dinner at the Drill hall, Chenies street west. In but in 1905 resumed its separate ex-

New York.—A fine gift made to the New York Association for the Blind is the fireproof factory building, costing over $100,000, which was presented by Miss Emily Howland Bourne and was dedicated recently. It is to serve as a model workshop for blind men who make brooms and cane chairs, but besides this it is to be an experiment station where the fitness of various trades for blind people can be tested.

New York.-It was announced that the National Civic Federation has organized a national department on industrial mediation laws, with Marcus M. Marks as chairman. Twelve years' experience of the conciliation department of the federation in dealing with industrial disputes has shown, it is declared, need of new as well as amendatory legislation, both federal and state.

San Francisco.-Frisco unions employed in the garment making industry are planning the organization of a district council. The proposed couneil will include the Independent Tailors' union, Journeymen Tailors' union, Garment Cutters' union, Independent Ladies' Tailors' union, Cloakmakers' union and United Garment Workers' union.

Pittsburg, Pa.—The United Mine Workers lead in gains in wages ducing the recent year, with an increase of $8,000,000, the Western Federation of Miners following with $3,244,500. the boot and shoe workers being third, with $3,200,000, and the maintenance of way employes being fourth, they having obtained an increase in wages of $2,000,000.

Washington.-By a referendum vote In the subordinate locals of the Interestional Union of Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers of America. the majority has decided against the position to withdraw from the building trades department of American Federation of Labor.

New York .- Out of 18,606 men who got shelter at the municipal lodging ouses in this city in the last year one-third were skilled laborers.

Houston, Tex .- Texas State Council of Carpenters is working on a plan to build a home for the indigent and disabled carpenters of the state.

Mr. Dinkey on their homes. The law requires that those who are to benefit by pending negotiations, but refused to this money shall earn four-fifths of their income by actual personal exertion and that they shall not have an income exceeding $1,500 a year.

> Minneapolis.-The twelfth biennial report of the Minnesota labor bureau made two years ago showed that more than ten thousand persons were killed or injured in the industries of partment believed that this number could and should be materially reduced. As a result of its activity to ceived from the employers, there has been a reduction of 23.6 per cent. in fatal accidents and of 28.6 per cent. in nonfatal accidents during the last two years.

> Boston .- At the request of the employers, Boston Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' union has elected a committee to confer regarding the wages and rules for on and after May 1 next. In recent years the lathers' union has given the employers six months notice of any desired change, and has not bothered about conferences, its rule being that no union man will work for other than the conditions established by the union on and after May 1 of each year.

> Atlanta, Ga.-The Atlanta Federation of Trades some time ago decided to hold a meeting, to be continued for three days, the purpose of which is to intensify the interest in the organized labor movement of the south. The four general problems to be taken up are agitation, education, legislation and organization. The dates that have been selected are December 9, 10 and 11, including sessions in the evening.

> Brooklyn, N. Y.-The law limiting to 54 hours a week the employment of all women in manufacturing will be tested for its constitutionality. The test case was brought by William Hoelderlin, a candy manufacturer, who had himself arrested on October 7 for violating the law. He was released on a writ of habeas corpus, the case was adjourned by Magistrate McGuire, and it is to be argued before Justice Blackmar of the supreme court.

Washington.—Samuel Gompers was re-elected president of the Federation over May Hayes of the International Typographical union. The vote cast was: Gompers, 11,974; Hayes, 5,074. 1812, with twelve members, and re- The convention defeated the United Mine Workers' resolution calling for future elections by a referendum vote 1895 it joined the amalgamated union, of the federation's 2,000,000 members. Seattle was chosen as the 1913 meeting place. Richmond and Indianapolis also wanted the convention.

New York.-Reports submitted to the annual convention of the New York State Brewers' association here show that the brewing industry is the seventh largest in the United States, and that it pays higher wages than any other industry in this country. New York state, with 157 breweries, has an annual output of 14,000,-000 barrels, of which 10,000,000 are credited to New York city.

Victoria, N. S. W .-- The prosperity which marked the year 1910 in the Australian state of New South Wales continued throughout 1911. There were but minor industrial troubles. The further increase in the cost of living was met to a large degree by increased wages. The chief difficulty was the housing of the increased population. Building operations reached record figures during 1911.

Washington.-In addition to the satisfactory employer's liability and workmen's compensation act which all civilized lands (with the exception of most of the states of the Union) have on their statute books. old age and invalidity pension laws have, likewise, been enacted by the leading countries of the world.

Hartford, Conn.-The strike of the 700 employes of the Colt Patent Firearms company here, where revolvers are manufactured for the United States government, closed recently with a victory for the men involved. Berlin, Germany.-In Germany, electrical apparatus and wires carrying high voltage currents are marked by a warning sign consisting of a startling realistic lightning bolt and the German word for "danger." Chicago.-Several thousand organized hodcarriers and building laborers in Chicago are now seeking affiliation with the international organization affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Chicago.—The Illinois Manufacturers' association has decided to form a casualty insurance company to write accident insurance under the new workmen's compensation law.

London, England.-Of the twentyfive thousand odd persons employed in government shipbuilding yards of the United Kingdom about two hundred and eighty are women.

TOKEN OF ADMIRATION

By JULIA CONWAY.

It had always been the rule in the Crompton family for the children to share and share aliko, but when pretty Claribel, the sheet, received the day after her sixteenth birthday a beautiful basket of bonbons, a token of the admiration of a youth whom she had met while visiting in the summer, she inwardly rebelled at the prospect of seeing the delicious sweets melt away like the dew before the sun. For the young Cromptons always made remarkably short work of a box of candy.

"I speak first for that big piece of candied pineapple," said Alice as the children gathered around Claribel to see the delectable package opened. "Can I have some o' them candied violets, Claribel?" asked small Joe. "No, you can't." Claribel quickly raised the basket beyond the reach of Joe's none too clean hand. "You can't have any, because you said, 'them' instead of 'those.'

"Well, I don't care if I did. You ate more'n half the taffy I bought with the nickel dad gave me for having my spelling paper right."

"And it was the first time he ever got a perfect mark," chimed Helen. "Why, Claribel, aren't you going to let us have any of the candy? You shut down the basket lid with a regular forever bang.'

"Mayn't I have that pineapple to put in my lunch box?" asked Alice. guess if you had to take an old lunch to school every day the way I do, you'd-

"Well, what good would it do if you're always going to save your

"I'm not always going to save it," replied Claribel in a tone of martyred patience, "but this is a very special basket of candy and I think if I don't want it all gobbled up the first minute I've a right to keep it. My sorority is going to meet here a week from next Saturday and I want to show all the girls this beautiful basket just as it is. Then I'll pass it around and you can all have some.'

'Yes, after the sorority girls have picked it all over," grumbled Alice. "Some day you may wish to join my sorority, Alice."

Alice, being an aspirant for early election to her sister's sorority, looked somewhat chagrined and mentioned casually that it was time to be going to school. After the others were gone Claribel hastily looked about for a hiding place for her basket of candy. After a moment's desperate thoughtfor nothing was sacred in the house of Crompton—she flew into the library and secreted the candy with considerable satisfaction at her bright idea.

"Where on earth did you put your candy?" asked Helen the next day. "Oh, were you looking for it?"

"No, of course not, but I didn't see it anywhere and I just wondered where it was." "I suppose you all wondered."

"I mean that the whole neighborhood is now interested in the child and will see that she get a real education. And if that comes true Daisy will have grown. More than that, the neighborhood will have grown through doing good for some one. I am certain that there are hundreds of Daisy Kites in the nooks and corners of the state waiting to be touched by something vital in education. I don't mean the education that ites between the covers of a blue back speller, a reader or an arithmetic, but the education that appeals to the child because it fits for life's activities.

against these two phrases. Fortunately here and there in the rural schools the teaching of sewing and cooking has gained a foothold. In Warren county this year the people were fortunate enough to have a competent woman go from school to school with her equipment in a wagon and give some instruction.

Naturally there was some grumbling among those who belong to the "old "what was good enough fur me is good enough fur my chillun," but something happened when the school fair was held this autumn. A number of prizes had been offered for exhibits of needlework and cooking; also, a grand prize of $50 in gold to the girl showing the greatest amount of fine work in all classes. This grand prize was awarded to Daisy Kite.

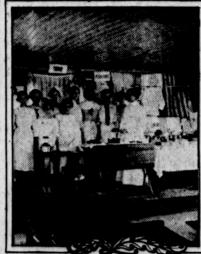

As soon as the award was made known, some outsider asked "Where is this girl that has done so much splendld work, covering, sewing, beaten biscuit and fine cake making?"

"Yes. Why?"

"Did you notice a lame girl with a face written over large with the word 'Pluck?" That was Daisy Kite. She does what the others do, in spite of the fact that she has been on a crutch since she had a hip crushed when she was three."

"Oh, her father is a farmer who rents somewhere out in the county here, and Daisy had been going to the country school in the neighborhood. It is just a case that shows that sewing, cooking, practical things, will pay in our school

MESSIAH'S GLORY IS DRAWING NIGH

The Stones Announce the Signs of His Presence.

Pastor Russell at Washington Temple. The Beginning of His, Pastorate. Texts For Three Discourses Found on the Front of the Union Depot. The Message of the Hour-Not the Burning of the World, but the Rolling Away of the Curse and the Uplift of Humanity Will Result From Messiah's Kingdom.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 5.-Pastor Russell of Brooklyn last week accepted a call from the Washington Temple Congregation, New York Avenue and Thirteenth Street. After some appropriate remarks re Washington as the only center of influence superior to Brooklyn and on an equality with London, he took for his text one of the three Bible quotations found over the portals of our Union Depot; "Thou hast put all things under him."

-Psalm viii. 69 Pastor Russell declared this text specially appropriate for a great public building reared in the dawning of the glorious Age of Messiah's Kingdom. Although optimistic respecting the grand outcome of the Creator's Plan. Pastor Russell fully believed the Bible to teach that, preceding the sunrise of the New Age, there would be a dark hour of awful trouble, which is almost

He reminded his hearers that the old view now gradually fading from us is that Messiah, instead of coming a second time and setting up His Kingdom. delegated authority to His followers, one of whom should be spiritual king of the world and entitled Pope. Under this mistaken notion, well-meaning men have declared that if the Hierarchy of Christ were authorized to reign, it should use the secular arm of power to compel all to acknowledge the papal throne as God's Throne, on earth. It is still claimed that each Pope in turn is Christ's vicegerent.

Napoleon broke this spell when he took the Pope a prisoner to France The world since then has doubted the vicegerency and has held that if the Lord's Kingdom were in the earth, Dischool," the school that believes that vine Power would have upheld it, and no dishonor or ignominy would have been permitted.

The Bible Much Neglected. The creeds have been reverenced.

while the Bible has been neglected under the superstition that the creeds presented the Bible teaching in a simpler form. The rejection of the creeds has meant also the rejection of the Bible. The colleges of Christendom are turning out unbelievers. The horrible consequences will soon be manifest in the overwhelming of our social structure in anarchy. Thank God, that will be the opportune moment when Messigh will take the reins of govern

Man a Little Lower Than Angels. The Psalmist, considering the heavens as God's handiwork, was amazed that He should promise to deliver fallen man. He recites the glory and honor in which Adam was created-the head of all earthly things, in the likeness of God, "a little lower than the angels."

St. Paul quoted the prophecy and applied it in Hebrews ii, 6-18. The Logos was made flesh like the first Adam. "that He by the grace of God might taste death for every man." The work of delivering the world from the power of sin and death had not followed more quickly the work of Calvary because. in the Divine Program, Christ must first lead forth an "elect" number of sons to glory. With the completion of their number will come the glorious time when the curse shall be rolled away and blessings come instead.

The Sanctifier and the Sanctified. The word sanctified, the Pastor explained, carries the thought of being set apart to some special service. As the Lord Jesus sacrificed His every earthly interest to do the Father's will. so must all who would sit with Him in His Throne. St. Paul declares that the Sanctifier and the sanctified ones are all one-He the Head and they the Body members.

Then the Divine Program will carry blessings to all the families of the earth, redeemed with the precious blood of Jesus. These will partake of flesh and blood, therefore the Redeemer became partaker of the same. that He might not only redeem them. but destroy death and the destroyer: He will liberate the slaves of sin and death, roll away the Curse, and open the prison-house of the tomb. Thus all will have fullest opportunity of returning to the image of God. Divine fellowship and life everlasting.

All Things Put Under Him.

The world will be officially turned over to Messiah at His Second Advent: "Ask of Me, and I will give Thee the heathen for Thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for Thy possession." By the exercise of Divine Power Satan will be restrained and ultimately destroyed. Then the perfect earth will be delivered over to God. as St. Paul points out in I Corinthians xv, 25-28.

Are You Blue and Worrled?

Nervous? Some of the time really ill? Catch cold easily and frequently suffer from biliousness or headacke? The reason is that your system does not rid itself of the poisons in the blood; just as impossible as it is for the grate of a stove to rid itself of clinkers. The waste does to us exactly what the clinkers do to the stove; make the fires burn low until enough chakers have nocumulated and then prevent its burning at all. Your liver is sluggish—you are dull and heavy—sleep does not rest, nor is food appetizing. In this condition illness develops. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery eradicates the poisons from the body—a glyceric alterative extract made from bloodroot, golden seal and mandrake root, stone and queen's root, without the use of alcohol. No matter how strong the constitution the stomach is apt to be "out of kilter" at times; in consequence the blood is disordered, for the stomach is the laboratory for the constant manufacture of blood.

Couldn't Walk!

"I used to be troubled with a weakness peculiar to women," writes Mrs. Anna Jones, of Kenny, Ill. "For nearly a year, I could not walk, without holding my sides. I tried several different doctors, but I grew worse. Finally, our druggist advised Cardui for my complaint. I was so thin, my weight was 115. Now, I weigh 163, and I am never sick. I ride horseback as good as ever. I am in fine health at 52 years."

TAKE The

We have thousands of such letters, and more are arriving daily. Such earnest testimony from those who have tried it, surely proves the great value of this vegetable, tonic medicine, for women.

Cardul relieves women's sufferings, and builds weak women up to health and strength. If you are a woman, give it a trial. It should help you, for it has helped a million others. It is made from pure, harmless, herb ingredients, which act promptly and surely on the womanly organs. It is a good tonic. Try it! Your druggist sells it.

Shoes and Gloves you must have. When your toes and finger tips are cold you shiver all over.

Our shoes will stand the strain of busy feet. You can also "keep busy" in our shoes, because they are "comfort" shoes.

"The "corn doctor" won't get you if you wear our shoes.

Our shoes are also trim and stylish: they won't make your feet look like a pair of canvassed hams.

Buying our shoes won't eat a big hole in your pocketbook either.
